SECOND FRONT COMING, CHURCHILL WARNS

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

It gives exceedingly to wonder whether the authoritative Army and Navy Journal hasn't opened the closet door on a rather grim international skeleton by its sensational assertion that powerful interests would like to remove Chief of Staff General George C. Marshall from the Washington scene.

"Acting under the President's instruction," explains the Journal, "the Marshall has labored zealously to insure the fullest measure of cooperation with our Allies and especially the British, a policy based on the President's and his own appreciation of the necessity of safeguarding American interests. . . . Thinking only of winning the war in the shortest time and of saving every American life possible, in connection with the bloody operations which it calls for, General Marshall, of course, has come into conflict with powerful interests which would like to eliminate him from the Washington picture, and place in his stead an officer more amenable to their will."

That's a nasty picture. Who are these powerful interests? The Journal leaves it to us to figure it out for ourselves. The general public has learned of only one difference of opinion between Marshall and critics.

The chief of staff is said to have held firmly to the conviction that western Europe should be invaded directly from England. Other strategists, particularly those on the British side of the table, have frowned on cross-channel invasion. Timing of the drive also is said to have caused some dissension.

WELL, it certainly is interesting to know where General Marshall has stood on such invasion, for that has been one of the major issues of the war, as Moscow hasn't allowed us to forget. Readers of this column over a considerable period will recall that it persistently has pointed out that the quickest way to victory would be this admittedly highly dangerous operation—always provided the Allies were properly set for it. Nobody with any knowledge of military affairs would suggest such a diversion short of full preparation.

You'll find plenty of military experts who feel that had the Allies been able to invade France this summer, it likely would have been possible to dig in by the end of the month. I think it still might be done, if the operation were started soon, though admittedly the season is late.

The Russian plea of course has been that the appointed hour for invasion is while the Germans are in dire straits on the Red front. General Marshall himself in testifying before the senate and house military committees on the need of more men for the army, declared:

"While you have the other fellow Turn to WAR TODAY, Page 8.

Three of Four Sailor Sons Lost, Mother Learns

PORTSMOUTH, Sept. 21.—Mrs. Bertie Moore has lost three of her four sailor sons.

The Navy reported Grover, 25, a machinist's mate, and Clyde, 25, a bombardier, missing in the battle for Salerno less than four months after 23-year-old Edward, an oiler's mate was reported missing in the North Atlantic. A fourth son, James, 28, is an electrician's mate.

6,000 ATTEND ARMY EVENT HERE MONDAY

Hear Value of Bond Purchases Stressed to Back the Attack

Fully 6,000 people went home from Reilly stadium last evening more determined to back up the fighting man on the battlefield by increasing their purchases of War Bonds, after having listened to the program presented in conjunction with the 72nd Military Police company's visit to the city yesterday.

After viewing in a downtown parade the military equipment which their War Bond purchases make possible, the citizens jammed the stadium stands where the officers in charge of the contingent conveyed the Army's message that "when the home front is strong the front line can't help but be strong."

Throngs witnessed the parade, led by the helmeted soldiers and their heavy pieces of rolling equipment, Salem Civilian Defense units, the Red Cross units, American Legion, the Lisbon Victory Corps and four bands—Salem and Lisbon High schools, the Canfield American Legion and the Fairmount Children's Home.

Appeared on Program

The soldiers and bands massed on the field as the crowds filled the stadium for the program which was opened by Lieut. Edward M. Miller, Army chaplain, who said: "Let us make sacred this moment as we consecrate ourselves for the sake of our boys at the front. . . . that eventually righteousness, peace and goodwill will prevail in the world."

Howard Sinclair, master of ceremonies for the civilian part of the program, introduced those on the speaker's stand, among them L. H. Coley, chairman of the Columbus County War Finance committee; Ralph W. Hawley, chairman of the Salem War Bond drive, who extended official greetings in behalf of the people and Salem and northern Columbus county; Major William Saliers, Army officer in charge, and Lieut. B. C. Ramey, who acted as master of ceremonies for the entertainment which the soldiers and WACS provided.

Lieut. Ramey, in recognition of agriculture, industry and labor, introduced County Agricultural Agent Floyd Lower of Lisbon; George Baile, president of the Salem Manufacturers' association, and James M. Duffey, East Liverpool president of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters.

"You produce for us and we'll produce for you and get home sooner," the officer declared.

Reports on Bond Sales

Other speakers included Frank Pauley, representative of the Ohio War Finance committee, who reported on bond sales.

BOND SALES JUMP; EXCEED $1,130,500

Bond Sales: $1,130,560.15
Quota: $1,915,000
To be sold: $784,439.15

Salem people responded to the Army day appeal yesterday by buying $323,606 in War Bonds, swelling the total sales to $1,130,560.15.

This represents 59 per cent of Salem's quota, leaving $784,439.15 to be sold before the campaign closes Sept. 30. To date there have been 2,838 sales.

Although the Quota Club members established a bond selling booth on Broadway while the army equipment was on display yesterday afternoon, and some 200 bondholders were at Reilly stadium last night prepared to take orders for bonds, practically all of yesterday's sales came through the regular issuing agents.

Because of the Army's set schedule for the evening program, which had to be adhered to, it was not possible to announce to the large crowd that the bondholders were on hand to take care of their pledges.

Sir Kingsley Wood, 62, Dies In Great Britain

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Sir Kingsley Wood, 62, chancellor of the exchequer, died today.

The man who was credited largely with keeping Great Britain's wartime finance on an even keel died on the eve of the anticipated announcement of his pay-as-you-go plan for workers' income tax.

Sir Kingsley has served as chancellor of the exchequer under Prime Minister Churchill since May 12, 1940, when he received his post in a cabinet shakeup. He previously had served as lord privy seal and air minister.

Wheeler Counts On Baruch To Aid Father Deferment

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—With support for the measure apparently ebbing, Senator Wheeler (D., Mont.) counted heavily today on Bernard M. Baruch to dent the solid military front against his proposal to defer the father draft.

Wheeler told reporters in advance of the scheduled resumption of hearings on the legislation he expected Baruch to criticize the reported "hoarding" of workers by war industries. The Montana congressman has done more to put family heads in line for induction next month than any other one factor.

Baruch made such a criticism in his recent report to War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes. But at the same time he said it would be unwise to exempt fathers in essential occupations if it meant taking skilled workers from war industries.

The senate military committee voted yesterday to call Baruch as a witness on Wheeler's demand, but the time of his appearance remained in doubt. The Montana senator said he would not ask for debate on his bill until Baruch had been heard, probably tomorrow.

Damaging Testimony

While Wheeler was inclined to discount its effect, the opposition voiced against his bill yesterday by Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, and Admiral Ernest J. King, commander of the fleet, apparently damaged his chances of passage.

Senator Austin (R., Vt.) said he thought the testimony of the two military chiefs "shows the fathers draft measure ought not to pass."

Marshall told the committee in effect that the Army had just arrived at a point where it is trained, equipped and prepared to deal with the blows to the enemy all over the world. He insisted that nothing ought to be allowed to interfere with its planned increase in strength to 7,700,000 (including WACS) by the end of the year.

The chief of staff turned aside questions as to the drafting of fathers, contending that was an issue for Congress or the Selective Service to settle, but he made it clear that if the needed men could not be obtained elsewhere, fathers ought to be called. King backed up this viewpoint.

John Q. Citizen And Joe Soldier Get Together As Military Police Company Visits This City

By RUTH OBENOUR

John Q. Citizen and Joe Soldier got together and had themselves a time yesterday when the 72nd Military Police company spent the day in Salem.

If Mr. Citizen needed any further proof that Joe Soldier means business the inspection of arms and demonstration of military equipment he saw should have supplied that proof.

And if Joe Soldier had any doubts as to Mr. Citizen's interest in Joe's welfare and in his willingness to back anything Joe started, those doubts should have been dispelled by the enthusiastic welcome the 72nd received here.

The Military Police company, arriving during the morning, set up a bivouac area in Centennial park and began a schedule that would make the average civilian wit in his tracks.

ON SIX WEEKS TOUR OF 40 OHIO CITIES

Trucks, other motorized equipment and mobile units rolled into Salem about 10:30 and within 40 minutes—so this News reporter was assured by occupants of Tent 4—the bivouac had assumed the orderly appearance of a temporary camp.

Sergeants Paul Valentine of Cambridge, Mac Wayne 1st of Mt. Vernon, Ind., Corp. Therman Douglas of Lost Creek, W. Va., and Sgt. Raymond Jensen of Racine, O., explained the complicated system required to erect the tents, each of which houses six men with their full equipment, cots and gear.

The contingent began a six weeks tour of 40 Ohio cities last week—as Corp. Paul Caldwell of Columbia, S. C., sitting in the first aid tent, unhappily remarked, "We only have 30 some to go yet." The tour is part of the regular motor movement training the troops receive.

All the men in the detachment which visited Salem have completed basic training, have been in the company for a year and a half, and are subject to call to active service at any time. Most of them are from West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and North and South Carolina. Their permanent station is in Cleveland.

Fifth Army Captures New Town As Allied Bombers Attack Venice

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 21.—American Liberators threw new weight into the conquest of Italy by bombing the historic port of Venice as French troops and native guerrillas proceeded today to mopping up German resistance on Corsica and the U. S. Fifth army registered new gains in the Salerno beachhead.

Slowly and steadily pressing the Germans backward, the Fifth army stormed and took the key town of Eboli, 16 miles inland, which had served the enemy as a communications center during last week's heavy fighting about Salerno.

This retreat already has taken the bulk of the German forces north of the Sele river.

A military spokesman also announced the Germans are swinging the lower end of a line which formerly enclosed the Salerno bridgehead to the north and east to avoid being trapped by the continued rapid advance of the British Eighth army.

The retreat already has taken the bulk of the German forces north of the Sele river.

Fight Delaying Action

The Germans are using infantry supported by small groups of tanks to fight a delaying action in the Eboli area and the Fifth army also was reported encountering elaborate minefields and demolitions in its slow but continued advance north of Salerno.

The enemy possesses excellent defensive positions in the hill country north and northeast of Salerno, the spokesman said, and the progress of the Allied troops is necessarily slow in such terrain.

German prisoners were quoted in official reports from the front as giving eloquent testimony of the devastating effect of incessant Allied air attacks on retreating German columns.

Cairo headquarters, reporting the bombing of Venice, said one explosion caused there was followed by a column of smoke 5,000 feet high and the full results of the attack were obscured by clouds.

Liberators based on the Middle East also hit railway yards and bridge approaches at the Adriatic port of Pescara.

Selfridge Field Army Officer Is Discharged

SELFIDGE FIELD, Mich., Sept. 21.—Lieut. Col. Charles G. White, the second high ranking officer of this Army air base to be convicted within a week of violating the articles of war, was sentenced by a general court martial last night to dismissal from the Army.

The court martial found the 35-year-old White guilty on five counts, including "drunk to the prejudice of service" on two occasions.

Col. William T. Colman, former base commandant, was demoted by a court martial last Tuesday of the rank of Captain after he was convicted on four counts of drunkenness and careless use of firearms in connection with the shooting and wounding last May of Pvt. William R. McKee, Negro soldier-chauffeur.

Nazis Reinforced

The Nazis were said to have retired to the eastern shore of the island, where they were receiving reinforcements from the Italian mainland and the island of Elba. The German garrison also was augmented by troops withdrawn from Sardinia, seven miles to the south, from which the Nazis were driven over the weekend by Italian forces.

It was hoped here that the French forces, bulwarked by Italian troops, would quickly subdue the Nazis, estimated to number about two divisions or between 25,000 and 30,000 officers and men.

Control of Corsica—a department of metropolitan France—would give the Allies facilities for carrying the war closer to the Germans both in France and in northern Italy. The island, birthplace of Napoleon, the island is only 50 miles from the Nazi-held Italian mainland in the vicinity of the La Spezia naval base and the port of Genoa. Long range fighter planes and bombers based in Corsica could freely attack the Po valley, where the Germans are expected to make their major stand in northern Italy.

Canfield Sailor Dies In Action, Navy Reports

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The Navy announced today 35 casualties, including 20 dead, 1 wounded and 34 missing.

This brings to 29,698 the total of Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard casualties reported to next of kin since December 7, 1941. The grand total included 10,255 dead, 5,214 wounded, 10,084 missing and 4,145 prisoners of war.

The Ohio casualties include: McCartney, Forrest Edward, dead, wife, Mrs. Juanita L. McCartney, Racoon road, Canfield.

FRENCH FIGHT FOR CORSICA

Commandos Stage Raid To Wrest Control of Island From Nazis

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 21.—French troops were battling on the soil of metropolitan France today for the first time since the collapse of the republic in the spring of 1940 as Commandos from North Africa fought side by side with patriots of the mountainous island of Corsica against the German garrison.

Announcement of the landing of the Commandos, some of the forces which took part in the Tunisian campaign, came in a terse communique issued last night in Algiers by Gen. Henri Giraud. The communique gave no details of the fighting, but said it had "taken a favorable turn."

The Stockholm Svenska Dagbladet, publishing dispatches from German-controlled Marseille, said, however, that French forces had occupied Ajaccio, Corsica's capital and an air and naval base, after a sharp fight with the Germans.

The Nazis were said to have retired to the eastern shore of the island, where they were receiving reinforcements from the Italian mainland and the island of Elba. The German garrison also was augmented by troops withdrawn from Sardinia, seven miles to the south, from which the Nazis were driven over the weekend by Italian forces.

Awaiting Only Proper Time, He Declares

By E. C. DANIEL

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Prime Minister Churchill declared today that the second front will be thrown open "at the right time" and "a mass invasion of the continent from the west will begin."

Calling the Mediterranean battlefield the "third front," the prime minister told commons that the second front "already exists potentially" and "already is rapidly gathering weight. . . . The second front exists and is a main preoccupation already with the enemy."

"It has not yet been thrown into play," he continued. "That time is coming."

"At what we and our American Allies judge to be the right time this front will be thrown open and a mass invasion of the continent from the west will begin."

Surveying the whole sweep of the war with serene confidence, Churchill also declared:

1. Not a moment was lost needlessly in the operation against Italy and except for the failure of Italian guards to do their assigned duty Benito Mussolini would have been shot when Hitler's agents rescued him at Gran Sasso.

2. American forces have landed on the island of Sardinia to assist Italian troops who drove the German garrison over to Corsica, now being occupied by French units.

3. A tripartite conference of representatives of the United States, Britain and Russia will take place "at an early date" and no question will be barred from discussion. Any differences will be set aside for a conference on President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and the Prime Minister himself.

4. The Allies are prepared to place large armies in Italy and to deploy a weighty and active fighting front against the enemy on whatever line he chooses, to resist and to maintain against him with increasing weight and vigor if need be through the fall and winter.

5. A French army of 300,000 to 400,000 is being steadily organized and the Battleship Richelieu will soon take its place in the French fleet.

Speaking of the prospect of a Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin conference, the prime minister said:

"No meeting during this war could carry with it so much significance for the future of the world as a meeting between the heads of the three governments for without close, cordial and lasting association between Soviet Russia and their great Allies we might find ourselves at the end of the war only to have entered upon a period of deepening confusion."

Churchill's speech, longest in his career as prime minister, lasted two hours and seven minutes. He spoke for an hour and 15 minutes, stopped for lunch, and then picked up where he left off.

The prime minister, appearing before commons in his first full-scale report on the course of the world wide struggle since his historic conference with President Roosevelt at Quebec, spoke out sharply against those who had accused the Allied leadership of bungling in Italy.

The date on which the Italian invasion had originally been planned, he told the house, was Sept. 15, but it was moved up to Sept. 9 "as the result of decisions

MANPOWER SHORTAGE: CAUSE AND EFFECT

Publication of Bernard M. Baruch's manpower shortage report amounts to the government's official admission that it knows what is wrong. Baruch reports are considerably more than memorandums, to be read and filed in the wastebasket.

The gist of this one is that the wartime problem of making manpower go around is being aggravated by cause and effect. By removing some of the causes, some of the effects will disappear. Until that is done, the national manpower shortage will continue to be more apparent than real.

There is no simple solution, in other words. Selective service could draft pre-Pearl Harbor fathers and pre-Manila bay grandfathers, but unless something was done meanwhile about the waste of man-hours under cost-plus-fixed-fee contracts in the hands of managers who misuse them, there still would be a manpower shortage.

Either directly or inferentially, Mr. Baruch touches on almost everything else that his countrymen have found out about manpower in wartime—public and private errors. He does not, unfortunately, tackle the anomaly of a standard 40-hour week being held over from a period of unemployment into a period of manpower shortage, perhaps because his famous realism warns him there isn't anything he can do about it at this late date. Nevertheless, it is a curious anomaly, and it gets "curiouser and curiously" when attempts to conceal it with compulsory violations of the spirit of the 40-hour law, such as regional 48-hour week edicts and scheduled payment of overtime rates for regular time work, are considered.

However, Mr. Baruch has made it officially plain that the manpower shortage can't be blamed on any one thing and won't be cured by any one thing. It is a problem of diverse origins, with diverse treatments. Causes and effects will need to be understood.

Mr. Baruch suggests that in the meantime a system of priorities, to get manpower to the spots where it is needed most urgently, should be put into effect. It is already being tried on the west coast and probably will be applied more broadly in the near future.

THE REAL ITALY

Running like a bright thread through the grim story of the battle for Italy is the sympathy of the Italian people for the fighting men of the Allies.

Italy has ceased to be represented in World War II by a government and is now what every nation becomes in the last analysis—a population united by preponderant convictions and characteristics. The Italian people no longer can be misrepresented by errant politicians; for a little time, at least, they are their own infallible spokesmen. The deeds and words that acknowledge Allied troops as men who have come to drive out the Germans, not to conquer the Italians, today are Italy.

Eventually, there will be a new Italian government, with spokesmen who will represent the people, or misrepresent them, depending on the success of the effect which probably is now under way to reconstitute an organized Italian nation. Meanwhile, the Italian people are revealing in their own way why Benito Mussolini's abortive scheme to ally them with Germany fell through. It had no basis in popular conviction. Mussolini's regime fell, as any government must fall when it ceases to represent what the people, themselves, want from their government.

MAKE IT AN EVEN BILLION

For all practical purposes, frost and the imminence of frost have brought Victory gardening to the close of its first year of important activity.

The last bean of summer is withering on its stalk. The root crops are about as large as they ever will be. The tomatoes, as usual, aren't all going to have a chance to mature, and a good many of the little peppers have died a-borning.

But it was a great experiment for all who tried it, and perhaps the seasoned hands will forgive the newcomers for talking too much about their little triumphs and little failures. They really really aren't important enough to monopolize conversation throughout the summer, but in the mass they probably affected the welfare of an even billion dollars' worth of food.

A billion dollars, though, only suggests and does not tell what the gardens meant. They taught Americans who had forgotten it that the ultimate reliance of everything on earth is the earth, itself—a rediscovery that only Victory gardeners can understand.

CONFESSIONS THAT MADE HISTORY

When the chairman of the house ways and means committee, Rep. Doughton, the Democratic party's octogenarian expert on taxation, admits he had to hire an expert to settle his Sept. 15 score with the internal revenue bureau, the cat is out of the bag. If Rep. Doughton can't do it, who else is supposed to be able to do it?

The result may be good. Rep. Doughton now seems in a mood to undo some of the complications his committee and the so-called experts of the treasury department foisted on the public in their attempt to keep the Republican minority in congress from getting credit for putting over the pay-as-you-go principle of income tax collection.

What the 40,000,000-odd citizens who have to deal with income taxation want today is the same thing they wanted yesterday and the day before yesterday—a system of collection that makes it possible to pay the money without a lot of preliminary wrestling with higher arithmetic. The old adage about taxation is still the best: The aim of every tax bill should be to pluck the most feathers from the geese with the least squawking.

The government at Washington says: "The per capita circulation of money is now $128.37." Yes, but you can't buy a peck of parsnips with statistics.

Mrs. Laura Gerber of Greensburg, Pa., is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Amelia E. Walker of Franklin ave.

Several Salem women are planning to attend the annual inspection of McKinley chapter, Eastern Star, tomorrow evening at Niles.

George Bunn and John Siskowic are candidates for positions on the Wooster college football team.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, September 22

MODERATELY active and favorable conditions are shown in this day's mutual and lunar aspects, which indicate peculiar entanglements or affiliations, which may be turned to good account by shrewd and subtle manipulation, perhaps secret agreements of well thought out strategies. New things may be engineered under such tactics, perhaps innovations, novelties or bold initiative, but in all be alert to misrepresentation and fraud. Be wary with financial or legal writings.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of peculiar experiences in which strange contacts or agreements may cause future adventures both unwise and unprofitable. It may take much perspicacity, shrewdness and acumen to sidestep complications. Innovations, unique ventures or high-pressure enterprise may call for much discretion and sound sense, with financial documents subject to trickery or fraud. Be wary with strangers.

A child born on this day should be energetic, resourceful and talented in novel ways which may render it open to suspicion.

GERMANY'S RETREAT IN DEPTH

The figures being used in Russian communiques to describe the extent of Germany's retreat are getting astronomical. This plainly is a retreat in depth without defense, but only the Germans and Russians are permitted to know whether Hitler's hordes are leaving so much of Russia behind them by choice or necessity.

There is less heard now of a withdrawal to the Dnieper. Speculation is running ahead of the retreating German armies to as far as the border of Poland. Speculation is running ahead, also, to the choice that may have to be made, perhaps sooner than later, in the Kremlin: How far will Russia pursue the enemy if he finally withdraws from Russian territory?

But no matter how engaging, such speculation never should be allowed to proceed too far from its starting place. The fact remains that the Germans have not yet crossed the Dnieper on their way back and that the optimum fighting season for 1943 is almost over. It is improbable that the Kremlin's fateful decision on how far to pursue the Germans will have to be given—if it already is made—before the Russian winter offensive begins to have effect early in 1944.

Certainly this is not a time to forget that the spaces which made it possible for the Russian army to retreat now are helping the Germans.

Backache Needs Diagnosis

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
I MUST confess, as a critic of my profession, that the average fellow with an average, acute backache in a town of average doctors is not likely to get much of a break in the handling of his case.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Somebody has said that the only person interested in backache is the fellow who has one. There are three kinds of doctors into whose hands he is likely to fall; first, the doctor who gives him some chloroform liniment to rub on and then straps up the back with adhesive tape, no matter what the cause may be. Second, the manipulator who rubs and pounds and wrenches the back, often adding additional injury to the original one, and third, the rarity who really tries to find out what the cause of the trouble is and prescribes treatment accordingly.

Not you understand, that strapping or manipulation may not be the correct thing, but it is a good idea to find out what exactly is the matter first.

Complicated Structure
The back is a pretty complicated structure. There are first the vertebrae, a succession of bones attached to each other by ligaments and separated by cartilaginous disks. Nearly anything in the way of injury or disease, such as arthritis, might happen to the vertebrae bones alone to cause backache. But then there are a large number of massive muscle groups which move the spinal column around, keep it in line, etc. Anything may throw a strain on them, from high heels to a slumped position at the school desk, and will produce a postural backache.

There are nerves coming out from the spinal cord through apertures between each vertebrae, and these may become inflamed. Then there are organs underneath—the kidneys, which may contain stones to produce backache (although the old conception of Bright's disease appearing as a pain in the back is pure bunk). Then, and this is often forgotten, there is the mental conception of the back. It bears the burdens of life. And some may think their burdens are too heavy and get a psychological backache.

So the task of the diagnostician in studying a case of backache is a formidable one. The backache may be acute, due to a wrench or an injury. Here bracing the back to produce immobilization is possibly indicated. The adhesive strapping may be all right or it may require a plaster cast. Recurrent backaches may be due to posture or muscle inflammation, and here lies of ten the value of massage, manipulation, or some form of physical therapy.

Other Types
Backache relieved by rest is likely to be due to injury, perhaps even small fractures of the vertebral facets. Backache in the morning, getting better as the day wears on, is usually in the muscles—fibrous deposits or what not. Backache at night is likely to be arthritis of the vertebrae or so protrusion of the disks between them. Constant backache often denotes an infection of some part of the spine.

But these are generalities and should always be checked by X-ray and careful physical examination.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

M. I.—What climate would you advise for a person with tuberculosis? What diet should one follow? Can a case be treated at home without going to a sanitarium?

Answer: Rest for a prolonged period, and artificial (surgical) collapse of the lung are far more important than either climate or diet in the treatment of tuberculosis. A climate with sufficient altitude to make a rarefied atmosphere or a dry desert climate—in short, the Adirondacks, Colorado, New Mexico, Arizona—are the ones chosen. Good nourishing diet is all that is required—the old days of stuffing are over. Home treatment is possible, but the dangers are first, that the patient at home is inclined to break rule; and second, if there are children in the house, the danger of infecting them.

A. M.—My boy, four years old has what the doctors call pigeon breast. What does this indicate?

Answer: Pigeon breast is a prominence of the breast bone often shoved out by the ribs. It is often caused by rickets in childhood. It is not dangerous.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 45th st., New York. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene," and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

WILDCAT 13 by TOM GILL

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

"Hans sandwiches and beer!" Franz exclaimed. "A picnic lunch." "The beer's warm," Gloria warned.

Franz ate and drank with his usual heartiness, but from time to time his eyes returned to the derick, and a little later he and Gleason rode away with Nan.

They had scarcely disappeared when Spud came hurrying over. "There's something plenty phony about this visit," he pulled off his heavy gloves. "When Alter came up on the derick floor, he talked to me and never said a word to Sergei, and Sergei went right on working like Alter wasn't there."

"What's queer about that?" "Just this—those two birds have known each other for years," Drew frowned. "So they want us to believe they're strangers? But why?"

"You can have seven guesses," Spud picked up a wrench. "From now on, I'm going to watch that Russian otter with both eyes." Then as an afterthought, Spud asked, "And who's this fellow Gleason?"

Gloria had been quietly listening, but now she spoke. "Twice before I have seen him at the hospital. Once in the laboratory I saw them raise their hands in a salute to each other, and I heard Franz call him 'Excellency'."

Drew did not answer. Obviously the two men were working toward the same end. Whether or not they had come to check up on the money Drew had spent for equipment, only time would disclose. But, remembering that curious scar on Nan Alter's neck, Drew felt the cold touch of fear for the woman's safety.

For a moment he stood pondering, then with a start turned to see Alter looking down at him from his horse. If Franz had heard Gloria's words, he gave no sign, but, reaching in his pocket, thrust a folded bill into Drew's hand. "This belongs to you," he laughed, and Drew saw it was a thousand-peso note.

"Just a temporary gift," Franz touched his horse. "Later I expect it back with interest."

That same afternoon word came that Gloria was to leave for Aruba. The steamer would sail early the following day, and when Drew came back from the derick he found Gloria packing.

All through the evening the cloud of separation hung over the little shack. No one spoke much at the supper that was to be their last meal together, and when darkness fell the crews came down from their quarters to say good-by. Later Molly and Spud drove the light truck down to the village with Gloria's trunk while, alone on the porch together, Gloria and Drew sat silent and ill at ease, finding little to say, listening to the night sounds and the dull rumble of the drill.

"It will be strange over in Aruba," Gloria broke the long silence. "No more smell of the jungle or sound of the pump. Everything will be different except at the hospital—hospitals are the same everywhere. I hope I am very busy." She looked about her, as if to fix every detail in her memory. "All this," she whispered, "I will miss it so."

"I can't believe you're going," they were silent again. Speech seemed so very futile and empty now that the time had come for parting. He had no words to tell her how close she had come to be, how much of life they had shared together, and with a sudden shock he realized how empty the days stretched before him.

Darker, hot and breathless the night settled over the jungle and savanna, the frog chorus rose from the river, and in a corner of the shack a cricket began shrilling, while from over the monte a full moon rose, casting long shadows out across the savanna, touching to bright silver the winding road. He heard the soft intake of her breath.

"It is beautiful—more beautiful than it has ever been." She rose, walked to the edge of the porch. "It's been such fun living here. For me it's been like a new life. I think I understand now why you Americans want to keep your own way of life, with its great freedom, especially for women. It's something I'll never give up or forget."

Again she was silent, then suddenly she turned. "You know what I would like, Don Drew? I would like a last swim together before I go."

She was ready as soon as he, wearing the black bathing suit that had become so familiar to him. Leaving word with the house girl that they were going to the pool, they took the path down over the rim of the savanna.

It was almost as bright as day along the river. Seated by the sandy edge of the pool, they watched the water shimmering where a school of fish jumped and splashed after insects; the frogs that had been silent at their passing resumed their song. At last she looked into Drew's face.

"I've never known you so quiet." "It's because I don't want you to go."

"But"—her voice caught—"I have to go. You know that."

Long silence.

"Don't I?"

"Why?"

"For what you Americans call 'my job'." Hands tight-clasped about her knees, she looked out over the water. "Don't make it harder for me, Drew. I don't want to go. You know that, don't you? These weeks have been the happiest I've ever known, and today when I knew the time had come I cried. I'd like to go on forever, unchanged, just this way. But life never can—at least life never does."

Leaning back, she stretched both slender legs before her. "Some day—"

In the sand behind them a footstep grated, bringing them both to their feet, and Drew saw a dark form on the trail. He started forward, but the girl had already seen. "Tono!" she called.

"Si, it is Tono." The interne's voice was a dull monotone. "They told me at the house you were here." Without looking at Drew, he moved toward Gloria. "In the village they say you are going away."

"When do you say good-by to your father?"

"Tono"—they had both fallen in to their native Spanish—"he would not see me—you know that. It would only bring pain."

"Your place is with your own people," the low voice went on. "Did my father tell you to come here?"

He shook his head.

"Has he ever asked that I come back?"

"He should not have to ask it. You should never have come." She laid a hand on his shoulder. "Tono, please—we can't go

Bond Slogan Singer

WHEN YOU HEAR "Back the Attack"—the slogan song of the Third War Loan drive—on the radio or in entertainment spots all over the nation, you'll probably be listening to Mary Small. The Treasury Department chose her to make the official recording and then distributed thousands of records of the song everywhere. (International)

"That day I knew something important was happening too. But the night we were together in your laboratory—the night of the dance—then I knew that no one, no one in all the world, would ever mean to me what you meant. It made me happier than I had ever been, and yet I was afraid. I am still afraid." Her hands opened in a little gesture of dismay.

TAX PICTURE

Eltinger Research

WHILE this chart shows that the estimated tax receipts in the United States as compared to national income is far less than tax collections in either Great Britain or Canada, the chart is not meant to be a comparison of the relative war effort on the economic side. The chart means that Great Britain, taking 36.8 percent, and Canada, taking 39.1 percent of national income in taxes, are financing a bigger fraction of their respective war efforts by taxation than we are. ## TRIM LINES, PRETTY ACCESSORIES FASHION'S CREDO

Houses of 'Numbers' Racketeers Closing Under Arrest Threat

A Cleveland law enforcement officer predicted today that bingo games would fill new vacant store-rooms and give police a new headache since a new state law provides heavy penalties for writers and promoters of "numbers" games and bingo games for personal profit.

City officials and police throughout Ohio generally were puzzled over how they would differentiate between legal and outlawed bingo games, wondering if there were "lines" in the law and waited to see if any "numbers" operators would risk arrest for a test case.

The law, effective today, provides a $500 fine or six months imprisonment, or both, for a first offense for selling a "policy" or "numbers" ticket and a fine of $500 to $1,000 or a one-to-three-year penitentiary term, or both, for a second offense.

Operators of such games are subject to a fine of $50 to $500 and six to 10 months imprisonment for a first offense and a fine of $500 to $1,000 or from one to seven years in the penitentiary for a second offense.

Special Concision The law permits tingo games for charitable and religious purposes.

Detective Lt. David Kerr, Cleveland vice squad head, said "there will be at least 50 games in operation this afternoon, and that's only the beginning."

"There won't be a single vacant storefront or clubhouse in town in a month. I look for at least 200 games to be in operation in the near future."

"We will do everything we can to enforce the law, but it will be a gigantic task."

He added: "It will be very hard for the professional gamblers and other racketeers to keep their hands off such a juicy chance for big and quick profits."

Youngstown police reported policy games had closed weeks ago as an organized gambling venture and that the few still operating were using plain paper slips instead of lottery pads to make prosecution more difficult.

Reports were current in Toledo that all numbers houses would close.

Cincinnati put into effect an ordinance similar to the new state law and officials there indicated they would not interfere with bingo games and raffles conducted by religious, educational and charity groups.

Columbus officials decided to talk the situation over before making any public statement but Safety Director Roy B. Weid commented: "We have heard there are some 'bugs' in the law that must be ironed out, but so far we have not discussed them at length."

Jap Losses at Lae, Salamaua Are High

(By Associated Press) ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 21.—Japan paid a high price in men and equipment while losing Lae and Salamaua on New Guinea.

Now that these air bases are firmly in general MacArthur's hands, enemy garrisons in the area are beginning to undergo attacks by fighter-escorted bomber and to see more strafing Allied fighters than they have experienced before.

Just how many of a Japanese army once estimated at 20,000 men were slain as Salamaua fell Sept. 12 and Lae Sept. 16 remains to be disclosed in official reports. But a spokesman for General MacArthur said today the enemy, caught in a jungle encirclement movement, lost heavily.

He said evidence has been found that the Japanese lost an entire regiment, ordinarily averaging 2,200 men, in killed and hospitalized during the outpost battles at Wau, Mubo and Komiatum leading up to the larger scale fighting at Salamaua and Lae.

Japanese soldiers who fled north from Lae now are being added to the mounting list of enemy dead.

Today's communiqué told of effective air raids on enemy air installations at Finschhafen, 60 miles up the Huon peninsula from Lae, at Cape Gloucester, across Dampier strait on New Britain, 129 miles from Lae, and of extensive fighter activity in the north New Britain coastal area of Kimbe bay, roughly half way along the route to the choicest target on that island—the big air and shipping stronghold of Rabaul.

Theatre

Showing at the State for the last time tonight is "So Proudly We Hail" which tells the amazing experiences of a handful of army nurses, their romances, their heroisms while under fire at Bataan and Corregidor, and their eventual thrilling escape. Claudette Colbert, Veronica Lake and Paulette Goddard have the leading roles.

"Swing Shift Maisie," starring Anne Sothern and James Craig, portrays Miss Sothern as a young lady who abandons a vaudeville act to don overalls as a worker in an airplane factory.

Jean Crawford and Fred MacMurray have the leading roles in the action film, "Above Suspicion," featured at the State Friday and Saturday.

Tonight and Wednesday "Serious Girl" will be at the Grand theatre with Ann Corio in the title role. Johnnie Davis furnishes the music for the film. Also is "The Black Raven."

A double feature, "Raiders of San Joaquin" and "Queen of Broadway" is at the Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

If one-third of the annual food waste in the U. S. could be avoided, it would be equivalent to adding between eight and nine per cent to the total food supply.

And Reporter Finds Each Group Interested In Other's Problems

area, arranged in a hollow square, were two kitchen trucks, rolling kitchens where food for 170 men is prepared three times a day. Six cooks and six helpers work two hours preparing each meal. Yesterday noon the men had roast ham, mashed potatoes, cucumber and tomato salad, coffee, and for the evening meal they had beef stew, mixed vegetable salad, corn on the cob and cocoa.

ROLLING CHAPEL, CAMP STORE SET UP

Adjoining the kitchen units were the rolling chapel, complete with pulpit, organ, hymnals, and the WAC recruiting unit. The "post-office" and camp store also were placed in the south end of the camp, the two neat rows of tents stretching north to the end of the diamond. Motorized equipment, field pieces and trucks were ranged in the field next to the diamond.

The company is commanded by Major William Sailors, whose officers, with the battalion on tour, include: Capt. Alvin M. Lance, Capt. C. E. Mohlenkamp (medical officer), Lieut. Sam Wolford, Lieut. William Hill, Lieut. John Weichel, Lieut. Otto Scheule and Lieut. Edward W. Miller, chaplain.

The men, generally, seemed to like the tour as part of their training, except for a few who said it would be better if they didn't have to move from city to city so rapidly.

Lieut. Miller, the chaplain, whose permanent station is Camp Perry, said yesterday was his 21st wedding anniversary and his wife and family in Camp Perry were celebrating the occasion without him. An Army chaplain since last April, when he completed 20 days' training at the Harvard chaplain's school, Lieut. Miller formerly was pastor of the Third Street Baptist church in Dayton.

CHAPLAIN CONTACT MAN FOR MEN, FAMILIES

"There's only one real reason for my being here," he told the News reporter. "The men need someone to talk to when they get homesick. They just need someone to tell their troubles to and whether I do anything about their troubles or not, they feel better for the telling—for knowing they have a friend who's willing to listen to them when they need him."

The chaplain, who said he finds his work in the Army even more interesting than his church pastorate, tries to maintain contact between the men and their families, urging the men to write more often, locating soldiers whose families have lost track of them. His portable chapel is used as a reading and lounging room for the men, who write letters there, also.

Every Sunday morning the chaplain holds Protestant church services and a priest from the community in which the company is located conducts Catholic service. Every first Sunday of the month, Chaplain Miller conducts communion services. Attendance is about the same, he says, as with a civilian congregation—depending on the duties the men are assigned, their itinerary.

CAPT. MOHLENKAMP, MEDICAL OFFICER, GENIAL FELLOW

The men hold their chaplain in high esteem, their comments varying from "a regular fellow," "a good guy" to "a splendid chap." Men and officers seem to feel the chaplain, his many services and his companionship an integral part of the company.

Capt. Mohlenkamp, medical officer in charge of the hospital or first aid tent, the first tent behind the firing lines, is a genial fellow who has the appearance of a competent, successful professional man in uniform. His medical unit, equipped to perform emergency operations, has, so far, been used only for medical purposes and first aid. No serious emergency requiring surgery has arisen.

The display of equipment which, next to the men themselves, aroused the greatest public interest, was held on S. Broadway where jeeps, tanks, anti-aircraft guns, machine guns and other small arms, trucks, amphibian jeep, scout cars, tank carrier, wrecker were shown.

Patients soldiers explained the workings of their unit over and over again to groups of people who saw for the first time, many of them, why it takes so much money to pay for this war.

FIGHTING EQUIPMENT COSTS REAL MONEY

The 60 mm anti-aircraft gun, "Spook" costs the taxpayers $43,000; the light tank, "Blood and Guts," named for the U. S. General Patton who bears that affectionate nickname, costs $45,000; the standard jeep, "Flee," $1165; scout car, "Destiny," $7,500.

A light tank, weighing three and a half tons, equipped with two 37-calibre machine guns, a 37 mm cannon, radio, carriers a crew of four men. The light tank, of the type shown, has been used extensively in Africa.

The amphibian jeep, which American forces have used successfully in the South Seas and Sicilian campaigns, attains a speed of 10 miles in water and 65 on land and is manned by a crew of four.

The tank carrier, capable of hauling two vehicles, weighs 14 tons alone and with the two tanks, 26 tons. In the display were two anti-aircraft 40 mm Bofor guns, which, Major Sailors explained, are of Swedish invention, but American make and are, he declared, the most successful small gun the Army has. The gun's range is 18,000 feet, its operation fully automatic, loading and firing electrically. Its crew numbers six.

The 90 mm anti-aircraft gun, which takes a crew of 20, is the finest weapon the Army has, has a

AT CLOSEST U. S. BASE TO TOKYO

DISMANTLES, REASSEMBLES GUN WHILE BLINDED

A powerful 10-ton wrecker, the officer explained, is a complete machine shop on wheels, carrying spare parts and replacements for most repairs, including oxyacetylene torches for cutting through steel plate. The mechanic, hovering lovingly over the massive wrecker, said that his wrecker had a lift capacity of eight tons according to Army standards, but could manage a 20-ton load; does 45 miles an hour "safely" and could do much more. Its crew includes a mechanic and a helper.

An exhibition which thrilled many was the dismantling and reassembling, blindfolded, of a machine gun. The soldier who displayed his skill, which every man is required to possess, found each part of the gun after he had taken them apart, and deftly and rapidly put them together without a mistake. If that soldier's ever in a spot where striking a light will mean death, he'll still be able to keep his firearms ready to protect him and his position.

Two other members of the company, Pvt. Huseton Robertson of Columbus, Ind., and Pvt. Belton Smith of Marysville, Calif., should be rewarded for their patient, informative answers to questions about their company, movements, equipment and bivouac. Their attitude was typical of the helpfulness, interest and friendly spirit of all the men which made the visit here of such interest to the public.

Musts For Yule Mailing To The Overseas Forces

If you want your fighting man overseas to get your Christmas package and mail in time this year, you had better swing into action soon. Postal officials say Christmas parcels for men and women outside the country should be mailed between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15. For naval personnel, including Marines and Coast Guardsmen, the deadline is Nov. 1.

Because of other shipping needs, these regulations have been ordered by the postoffice on overseas mail:

Packages must not exceed 5 pounds in weight. They must not be more than 15 inches long. Their combined length and girth (double width and double depth) must not exceed 36 inches. Not more than one package will be accepted for mailing in any one week when sent by the same person to the same addressee.

Because of the distances and handling involved, parcels must be packed in metal, wooden, or solid fiberboard or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard on strong fully telescoping cardboard or strong fully telescoping cardboard boxes. The fiberboard or cardboard boxes must be securely wrapped in strong paper and tied with twine. Since each parcel is subject to censorship, packages should be wrapped so that they may be easily opened for inspection.

Parcels addressed to Army personnel should show the name and address of the sender, the name, rank, Army serial number, branch of service, organization, A. P. O. number of the addressee, and the postoffice through which the parcels are to be routed.

Parcels for Naval personnel should give name and address of sender, the name, rank or rating of the addressee and the naval unit to which he is assigned with the Navy number of the unit, or the name of the ship and fleet post office through which the parcels are to be routed.

The packages should be clearly labeled "Christmas parcel." Stickers resembling postage stamps are not permissible but an inscription like "Merry Christmas" may be written on the wrapping, providing it does not interfere with the address. Simple greeting cards may be enclosed.

If your gift is of money, the postoffice urges that money orders be sent instead of cash.

Bank Payment O. K'd

COLUMBUS, Sept. 21.—The state division of building and loan associations today authorized the payment Oct. 25 of a tenth liquidating dividend of 15 per cent, or approximately $81,000, to shareholders of the Union Savings & Loan Co. of East Liverpool. This brings the total paid to shareholders to 75 per cent.

COLUMBIANA

An installation service for Rev. Waldo J. Bartels, new pastor of the Grace Reformed church, was held Sunday evening. Dr. Orris W. Haulman of Akron served as chairman in charge and preached the sermon. He spoke on "No Uncertain Voice." He was assisted in the service by Rev. Roland A. Luhman of Youngstown and Elder Fred Keller, vice president of the church consistory. Rev. Bartels comes to the local church from Dover.

A call is being made for 20 women to volunteer their services at the Presbyterian church to assist in cleaning work which must be completed before Thursday.

Faith, Hope and Charity class of Grace Reformed church will hold a covish supper at the church at 6:30 tonight.

Chauncey Wolfgang, who has been living alone, has been removed to a nursing home at Wellsville because of failing health. His new address is 1003 Riverside ave., Wellsville.

Look into Your Heart before you give me your Answer!

My name isn't important. I'm just one of the millions of fellows over here fighting for America. I'd like to speak for these fellows—to you folks back home.

You see, I think I know what's in their minds, because we often talk things over among ourselves. Mostly we talk about home—about the places we came from and the things we plan to do when we get back. Right now, especially, we're thinking a lot about home, for we're in the bloodiest battles of history—and we know that some of us will not come back. Some of us will never see again the ones we love.

But—we've got a job to do and we're going to do it. What I want to say to you folks back home is this: we'd like to think that you are with us in this bitter struggle of invasion. It would help a lot to know that you are really behind us, backing us up 100 per cent. It's going to take a heap of ammunition—and ships and planes, tanks and guns to beat the Axis. That's what the 3rd War Loan is for; it's for INVASION. We've got to depend on you. Don't fail us, will you?

Yes, it's to you this boy is looking in this critical hour. Today America calls upon you to do your part in the 3rd War Loan. And your part is at least one EXTRA $100 War Bond during the drive. AT LEAST $100. That's in addition to your regular War Bond subscriptions. Some of you must invest thousands in order to reach our national quota. Invest out of your income—invest out of your idle or accumulated funds.

Sacrifice today—you will be richer for it tomorrow. Back the invasion with extra bonds.

Your Answer is Either "Yes" or "No" in this Roll Call of the Nation—

YES I will honestly do my best to invest in at least one extra $100 War Bond during the 3rd War Loan Drive. I will lend my Government this money gladly to back up our fighting men.

NO I am not lending any of my money to my country. I'm spending it. Sure, I know the boys who are fighting for me need support, but let somebody else make the sacrifices.

Your answer will be given in the number of EXTRA War Bonds you invest in during September.

Safest Investments in the World

• United States War Savings Bonds Series "E"; gives you back $4 for every $3 when the bond matures. Interest: 2.9% a year, compounded semi-annually, if held to maturity. Denominations: $25, $50, $100, $500, $1,000. Redemption: Anytime 60 days after issue date. Price: 75% of maturity value.

2 1/2% Treasury Bonds of 1964-1969; readily marketable, acceptable as bank collateral. Redeemable at par and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying Federal estate taxes. Dated September 15, 1943; due December 15, 1969. Denominations: $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $100,000 and $1,000,000. Price: par and accrued interest.

Other securities: Series "C" Savings Notes; 7% Certificates of Indebtedness; 2% Treasury Bonds of 1951-1953; United States Savings Bonds series "F"; United States Savings Bonds series "G".

Major Leagues Set For Final Intersectional Series Play

YANKEE-DETROIT GAME ATTRACTS FANS' ATTENTION

Cardinals Not Expected To Cause Brooklyn Dodgers Much Trouble

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major leagues will swing into their last intersectional round robin of the season tomorrow and instead of everybody ogling the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers as appeared likely when the schedule was drawn, attention will be centered on the New York Yankees' games with the Detroit Tigers.

In the last couple of years a September series between the Cards and Dodgers always has meant thunder and lightning and a pennant waning in the balance.

But this is all changed now. The three games with the Dodgers this week only mean to the Cardinals a chance to rub salt on old wounds. They could do this effectively by bumping Brooklyn out of second place, if they haven't let down as the result of clinching the National league pennant Saturday, and if the Cincinnati Reds cut loose against the New York Giants.

Yanks Have Jobs To Do

However, the controversy over second place in the senior circuit will be in eclipse until the New York Yankees complete the business of winning the American league flag. They had a chance to do it at Washington last weekend, but were set down surprisingly in the three consecutive games as the Senators reinforced their hold on the runner-up spot with a nine-game winning streak.

As a result the Yankees still need a combination of five victories of their own or defeats for Washington to eliminate the Senators.

While the Yankees are taking on Detroit for four games, in New York, the Senators will be host to the St. Louis Browns for three night tussles.

The Cleveland Indians, who also still have a mathematical chance, come into Yankee stadium Sunday after four games at Boston and then move on to Washington in the middle of next week.

The race should be over by then, but if it is not the Indians and Senators may dispose of each other.

Cards Expect Southpaws To Win Series From Yanks

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—For a number of years the most famous last word in the American league has been to start shouting about what you're going to do to the Yankees on any given occasion. The roof has a funny habit of falling in when you try to make it stick.

So it might be a good idea to tip the National leaguers they're looking for a leak in the gas meter with a lit match when they holler that (1) the Yankees can't do a thing against left-handers and (2) the three top St. Louis Cardinals southpaws figure to do fearful things to the batters in the forthcoming World Series.

So far this season, the Uptown elbowers who throw from the button-hole side of their vests. And they've won 20 games and lost 12 in those which went to a decision. What's more, the Yanks haven't done too bad with a number of lefties in their six World Series since '36—guys like Carl Hubbell.

No Hubbels Present

And while the Cards' top three—Max Lanier, Alpha (Bet) Brazle and Harry Brecheen—all are nice fellows, you have to admit, there isn't a Hubbell in the lot. Naturally.

Orange bowl, Tennessee bowed to Tulsa in the Sugar bowl, and Georgia Tech lost to Texas in the Cotton bowl.

Our section produced the nation's standard backfield performer of the year—Georgia's all-America Frankie Sinkwich—along with all-America center, Joe Dominovich of Alabama, and all-America tackle Clyde Johnson of Kentucky.

This season only four teams will go to the gridiron. They are Georgia Tech and Tulane, both counting heavily on naval cadets; Georgia and Louisiana State. Sub-draft age freshmen are the sole hope of the latter two schools.

I see you want me to name the best conference back?

Why bless you, Boss, your guess is as good as mine. Frankie Sinkwich played out his eligibility, Clint Castberry, Georgia Tech's cannonball kid who made history as the first freshman ever to make all-Conference, is in the Army air corps. Charlie Trippi, Georgia's spectacular understudy to Sinkwich, likewise is in the Army. So are big names from Tennessee, Auburn, Alabama, Mississippi State, L. S. U., Vanderbilt and other powers.

Georgia Tech likely will put its blue chips on the Cleveland (O.) passing expert, Eddie Prokop, a naval trainee.

Whatever Tu'ane has in navy personnel adaptable to football remains hidden along with the crabgrass, under the stadium tarpaulin.

Tech got the line mainstays of Vanderbilt's 1942 varsity team—including Vandy's sensational freshman center, Charlie Hoover, and both starting guards, John Steber and Eddie Atkinson. Tech's own center, George (Mutt) Manning, second only to Alabama's Dominovich last season, continues as No. 1 lineman. Hoover is being converted into a guard.

Only worry of Tech and Tulane will be out-of-town games, because navy personnel will be allowed only 48 hours' absence from classes.

As for the non-service schools, their case is summed up by rascal Wally Butts of Georgia, who says: "Our reputation will be great—until the first kickoff."

N. C. HUNT CAPTURES DERBY TRAPSHOOT

N. C. Hunt captured the annual Derby shoot at the Country club Sunday, with Mrs. G. A. Roese and George Baillie tying for second.

Hunt had seven points to his credit as the result of previous trapshoot wins this season and clinched the title by scoring three more Sunday.

The trophy shoot Sunday was captured by Louis Seaborn of Youngstown, breaking 91 out of 100 day pigeons tossed into the air. Second place honors were shared by Robert Clark of Cleveland and John Froman of Greensburg, Pa., each with 90. Hunt was third with an 89 score. L. C. Turnock of Cleveland, H. H. Hendricks and George Baillie tied for fourth with 88 scores.

Twenty-two trapshooters competed in the event.

Woman Trains Dogs To Save Lives Of American Soldiers

By ADELAIDE KERR
AP Features Writer

Mrs. Milton Erlanger's love for dogs has brought her a man-sized war job different from any other woman's.

She is consultant on the dog program to the quartermaster general of the United States Army. Which means that she is helping train the dogs that are saving American soldiers' lives in tropic jungles and Arctic snows. It also means that she has the unusual job—for a woman—of being military advisor to the signal corps.

Mrs. Erlanger, who is small, blonde and as feminine as lace, seems to have been heading toward that job for the better part of her life. As a child she loved, owned and trained dogs. As the wife of a New York manufacturer, she ran a kennel of 200 dogs and collected a flock of silver show cups. As an active figure in the dog world, she became impressed with the military service which dogs can render in wartime.

So when war broke out, she helped found Dogs for Defense—an organization which has since supplied thousands of dogs for the Army's dog training program. In the course of that work she came in contact with Major General Edmund B. Gregory, quartermaster general, and eventually became his consultant on the dog program.

Blueprint Is Adopted

Since then Mrs. Erlanger has worked with leading dog trainers of this country and Allied nations to establish a blueprint for teaching to follow in training dogs. The dogs they have trained in five different centers in the country are now working in every combat area where American soldiers fight.

PEACE BLUEPRINT SCANNED BY HOUSE

Solons Expected to Answer Roll Call Vote On Post-War Plan

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The house reached for its legislative pen today to sign a history-making document which would place Congress on record in favor of postwar collaboration with other nations in maintaining a "just and lasting peace."

The action comes in a roll call vote of a tersely worded resolution designed to bury any belief that congressional peacetime philosophy will be dictated by a doctrine of isolationism.

There appeared little doubt as to the outcome. From both Republicans and Democrats came potent support for the resolution, drafted by Rep. Fulbright (D-Ark). Leaders of both parties expressed confidence it would be adopted by substantially more than the required two-thirds vote.

Handful of Objectors

A comparative handful of lawmakers battled bitterly against it. They declared its adoption would sign away American sovereign and constitutional rights, that its acceptance would involve the United States in the conflicts, the responsibilities and the wars of other continents.

Against that argument was leveled the repeated contention of the resolution's backers that Congress had dealt this nation out of postwar collaboration after World War I and that the stakes of permanent peace were worth the gamble of the game.

Fulbright put it this way: "This, he said, is the 'first small step' in building a foreign policy. He added: 'In proper foreign policy, together with the machinery to keep the peace, is continuing in its nature; it does not consist of sporadic instances of emotional altruism or neighborly selfishness.'

"To be successful, it will require the assiduous daily attention of the best brains of our country. It is brains and leadership that we must supply, and not gifts of bread and milk and money and oil."

Seek Airport Funds

CANTON, Sept. 21.—Stark county's full share in a projected Summit-Stark county airport was raised by 10 Canton industries who subscribed $100,000 for the Civil Aeronautics Authority project. Summit county is to raise a similar sum against the government's contribution of $2,000,000.

Alliance to Change Time

ALLIANCE, Sept. 21.—Alliance will return to Eastern Standard time Oct. 3 to continue until the last Sunday in April, 1944, under an ordinance passed by city council.

Home Canned Vegetables To Equal Factory Output

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—The amount of home-canned vegetables this year will equal the total output of the commercial vegetable canners, William H. Albers, Cincinnati, president of the Super Market Institute, told the institute's seventh annual conference today.

Home-canned vegetables will amount to 230,000,000 cases, he said, 75,000,000 more cases than was canned last year.

He attributed the increase in home-canning to victory gardens and point-rationing.

6,000 AT STADIUM FOR ARMY EVENT

Hear Value of Bond Purchases Stressed to Back the Attack

ported a total of $1,644,000 subscribed in northern Columbiana county in the Third War loan drive, with Salem at the top of the list with $1,000,000.

Reports from the other northern Columbiana county communities included: East Palestine, $205,000; New Waterford, $25,000; Leetonia, $81,000; Columbiana, $170,000; Lisbon, $163,000.

Major Sailors, acknowledging the receipt of a Treasury certificate for these bond sales, declared that it is this type of patriotic support on the home front that will bring our boys home sooner and MORE of them home.

It was pointed out that this amount of money would make possible the purchase of 38 of the large anti-aircraft guns, or 40 tanks, or 1,410 jeeps.

Victory Yet to Be Won

Major Sailors, speaking for every member of his training unit, expressed appreciation for the hospitality extended and to those in the war plants, those in agriculture, the civilian defense workers and to all these of the general public who are sacrificing to help win the war. He recalled that victory had not yet been won.

The program was interspersed with musical selections by the band of eight soldier musicians from Billings General hospital at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., and by the seven WACS who sang a popular song entitled, "We're the WACS."

The serious side of the war—death and injury to our fighting men—was brought forcibly home by two wounded veterans who pleaded for the folks back home to back up the attack with War Bonds and "your sons" can have the equipment they need on the battlefronts with which to pummel the enemy.

Wounded Soldiers Speak

The two were Pvt. Dave Sobol, wounded in the fighting in North Africa, and Pvt. Jimmy Wilson, who was wounded while flying a tail gunner on a B-17 bomber in the Southwest Pacific.

Their messages to the home front folks were similar, each pleading for every citizen to do his utmost to support the war effort, by buying War Bonds, donating blood to plasma and by keeping on the job. "We've got to stand behind those boys who are out there endangering and giving their lives for us," they pleaded.

The evening's program came to a close with ceremonies, in charge of Capt. A. M. Lance, and a patriotic air by the massed bands, directed by C. M. Brautigam.

Officers in charge of the Military Police company, in addition to Major William Sailors, were Capt. Lance, Capt. C. E. Mohlenkamp, Capt. G. C. Warner, Lieut. Col. E. D. Lamb and Lieutenants John Weichel, William Hill, Otto Scheule, John Miller, B. C. Ramey, and R. C. Coleman.

Major Sailors complimented Ralph Atkinson, general chairman of the city's part on the Army day events, for fine cooperation and coordination with the Army schedule. Other civilian officials present last night were Mayors R. R. Johnson of Salem, Cecil Rauch of Lisbon, John Arnold of Leetonia, Arthur Myers of Columbiana, and Lloyd Culter of Washingtonville; War Bond chairmen of these towns, and Lynn R. Middle of Lisbon, County Defense council chairman.

DEATHS

ED E. STROHECKER

COLUMBIANA, Sept. 21.—Ed E. Strohecker, 74, died of arthritis at 2:30 a. m. today at his home on the Columbiana-East Palestine rd.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Strohecker, he was born Dec. 15, 1868, in Unity township. He married Lena Krohmer, April, 1906. He was a farmer and had spent his entire life in the vicinity. He attended the Lutheran church.

Surviving are his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Rosina Blair, at home, Mrs. Harold Spencer of Warren and Mrs. Russell Kibler of East Palestine; one son, George of Unity; five grandchildren; one brother, Will Strohecker of East Palestine; one sister, Mrs. Mary Flickinger of East Palestine.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Thursday at the Fry funeral home in charge of Rev. C. J. Sutorius. Burial will be in Columbiana cemetery.

Friends may call Wednesday evening.

FIFTH ARMY GAINS

Cairo, also, that the RAF had extended Allied air domination of the Mediterranean by landing on and starting operations from the Italian Dodecanese island of Coo.

Most of Corsica's Italian garrison of about 40,000 men has joined native guerrillas and French troops landed from fast French warships in a fight to wipe out the German forces on the island, an official announcement said today.

The announcement, issued by the Allied naval command, declared that French destroyers of the latest design, which are among the world's fastest warcraft, had "ashed into Ajaccio harbor with troops and supplies after a first 'hit' was paid by a French submarine. This submarine joined the French navy after a daring flight from a French port last November.

Some nights later the same warships made a second fast trip to Ajaccio with more men, guns and other equipment.

INVASION COMING

taken before the fall of Mussolini, and what has taken place in Italy at the earliest possible moment."

Churchill went to the houses loaded for bear—with one of the longest speeches of his career. He began at noon and broke off an hour and a quarter later for lunch, after which he resumed speaking.

He termed the Naples invasion the "most daring amphibious operation we have yet launched or which I think ever has been launched on a similar scale in the war."

He explained that the Allies could not have gone farther north unless they had dispensed with aid from shore-based aircraft—a fact which the Germans must have known.

Even in landing at Naples, he said, Allied forces were dependent "to an important extent" upon carrier-borne aircraft in which the Allies are becoming stronger and stronger.

The claim that Hitler was given 40 days to move in on Italy, the prime minister said firmly, "is as ill-founded in fact as it is wounding to those bereaved. The timing of our main attack in Italy was fixed without the slightest reference to the attitude of the Italian government."

We did not insist upon having Mussolini handed over to us before-hand, he said, for the simple reason that it would have tipped off the Germans of Badoglio's plan to make peace at a moment when the Italians were in a position of having still to appear as Allies of Germany."

Not a Substitute Plan

Churchill told commons today that the Mediterranean campaign is not "a substitute for a direct attack across the channel on the Germans in France and the low countries"—that he has never regarded it as such.

"On the contrary," he said in a lengthy statement on the tide of the war, "the opening of this new front in the Mediterranean was always intended to be an essential preliminary to the main attack upon Germany and the ring of subjugated and satellite states."

He disclosed, however, that he and President Roosevelt set Italy's elimination from the war as their principal objective when they met in Washington last May and added that no one "would have expected it to have been so rapidly achieved."

Turning to the air war, the prime minister announced that the weight of bombs dropped on Germany in the past year was three times that of the preceding 12 months and that Britain's aircraft supply now exceeds that of Germany by more than four to one.

Saying that the almost total destruction of German war centers was continuing on a great scale, Churchill disclosed that the percentage of plane losses to the RAF in the first eight months of 1943 was less than the same period last year and that the morale of the crews was consequently higher.

U-Boats Again Active

He announced also that during the four months ending Sept. 18 not a single merchant vessel was lost by enemy action in the North Atlantic and that enemy U-boats had not sunk one Allied ship anywhere in the world during the first two weeks of September.

Churchill added, however, that German U-boats had become active again and that one convoy was being attacked at the present time.

In a further disclosure of Russia's participation in the Italian surrender, the prime minister said the Soviet government studied the armistice terms and authorized Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to sign them in its name.

He also revealed that arrangements had been made to land an American armored division in Rome at the same time as the main division of Italy but that it was not possible because the Germans held the air fields.

Governor Attends Dinner

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 21.—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio joined by six other governors last night at a steak dinner served by Nebraska's chief executive, Dwight D. Griswold. "We don't want to tap Griswold's pork supply as he'll need the hogs to pay off his war bond debts," Bricker commented. Griswold has bet a corn-fed hog Nebraska can exceed its Third War Loan quota by a greater percentage than 28 other states.

Remain On War Time

ASHTABULA, Sept. 21.—This city's council reversed itself last night and voted unanimously to remain on Eastern War time through the coming winter. The legislative body adopted a slow time bill two weeks ago but reconsidered the decision after labor leader and merchants expressed opposition to the change.

AMERICAN LEGION CONVENTION OPENS

National Organization Marks Silver Anniversary at Omaha, Neb.

(By Associated Press)

OMAHA, Sept. 21.—Roane Waring, national commander of the American Legion, and Paul V. McNutt, War Manpower commissioner, joined today in telling delegates to the opening session of the Legion's silver anniversary convention that only by summoning the full strength of America will the war result in a complete victory for the United Nations on the battlefield and at the peace table.

Waring and McNutt preceded the scheduled presentation of the Legion's Distinguished Service medal to Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States Army.

In a report of his activities as national commander during the last year, prepared for delivery to the Legion, Waring declared the Legion must not only recommit itself to postwar time mandates, but also must consider plans for post-war America during the coming year.

McNutt, in an address prepared for delivery, dwelled upon the immediate war efforts, and said, "We must put behind the war effort every ounce of our fighting and productive strength. We cannot permit sentiment or prejudice or undue optimism to vitiate that strength. We shall get to Berlin and Tokyo, but let us all make certain that we get there earlier rather than late."

OWI Seen As First Target In Economy Drive of Congress

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The Office of War Information was set up today as the target for the first economy drive of the fall session of Congress.

"Their operations are a continuing menace," said Rep. Taber of New York, ranking Republican on the house appropriations committee. He urged a reorganization of OWI and removal of its administrator, Elmer Davis.

The New Yorker, who led last summer's fight which resulted in virtual extinction of OWI's domestic service, told reporters he believed Davis should be replaced by "a trained executive."

"Mr. Davis has neither the capacity nor the desire to reorganize the agency," he said. "We need to put some kind of a business specialist at work down there to get things in order."

Taber also criticized the OWI overseas activities, which he charged were "getting worse instead of better" and emphasized that his views on Davis applied also to Robert Sherwood, playwright head of the overseas division.

Given approximately $33,000,000 out of a request for $48,000,000 last summer, OWI is understood to have gone before the budget bureau already for approval of a request to Congress for additional funds.

Legislation to abolish the agency outright and transfer its functions to the State department is pending before a house committee, but no immediate action is expected. It was introduced by Rep. Barry (D-N.Y.).

From Rep. Johnson (D-Okla.), a member of the appropriations subcommittee on deficiencies, came a warning that not only OWI but all other agencies not directly tied in with the war effort face difficulty in obtaining more funds from Congress.

Johnson, whose committee started hearings today on supplemental funds for material and child care for dependents of service men, said he favored "giving the Army and Navy every dollar they need but trimming to the bone and then some the agencies not engaged in handling war activities."

Three Firemen Killed

DENVER, Sept. 21.—Three Denver firemen were killed today in the cave-in of a fire-swept tunnel of the Denver & Salt Lake railway about 27 miles west of Denver.

Denver fire department officials said the tunnel caved in after supporting timbers were burned away. A brush fire evidently started the blaze in the 1,800-foot bore.

Coal Production Drops

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—Production of both bituminous and anthracite coal slumped during the week ending Sept. 11, and Solid Fuel Administrator Harold L. Ickes in announcing the fact, pointed out that it was the second straight week of decline. Production of bituminous coal for the week was estimated at 11,550,000 tons, compared with 12,010,000 tons for the previous week.

Urge Peace Legislation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The two Ohio Republicans, Reps. Frances P. Bolton and George Bender, urged the house of representatives, on the eve of its first wartime vote on foreign policy, to pass the Fulbright resolution establishing congressional support for the creation of international peace machinery.

Approve Time Change

MASSILLON, Sept. 21.—Mayor S. R. Weirich signed today a city council measure for Massillon's return to Eastern Standard time at 2 a. m. Sept. 26.

Bomber cameras are synchronized with bomb release mechanisms so that the bombs can be photographed at every stage of their flight, and by means of a flash bomb the target is illuminated at the precise moment when they strike.

Allied Air Forces Active At Salerno

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 21.—The Northwest African Air Forces concentrated their attention yesterday on the Salerno battle area in Italy and without opposition practically wiped out a large convoy of enemy motor vehicles.

Fifty gasoline and oil laden trucks traveling west of Potenza were bombed and strafed and when fighter bombers pulled away 30 big tank trucks were afire and others were damaged. Other motor transport also was attacked, and as many as 67 destroyed and as many damaged.

Bombers attacked roads and railways within a short distance of the front and once again not a single German aircraft came up to try to stop them.

American Flying Fortresses hit the railway yards at Torre Annunziata, the tracks south of Pompei and three roads south of Salerno. Mitchell's attacked the road junction at Castelnuovo and American Raiders successfully raided the bottleneck between two railway yards at Formia, halting south-bound traffic.

The night before, in the face of bad weather, RAF Bombers started fires, hit roads and railway junctions close to the battle area. Yesterday Mitchell's bombed Avellino and Calabritto in the rear of the battle front. A large explosion took place at the Avellino road junction.

U. S. A. P. Invaders knocked out some gun positions.

Last night RAF and RCAF Wellingtons bombed roads and railway yards in Benevento.

There were no losses in yesterday's raids and since there was no opposition, no German planes were shot down.
